ALMA MATER

School Song

by
Lewis Brumfield

We may come, we may go but we ne-ver will for-get the school that we love so where many friends we're met. As the years pass on by our school we a-dore re-mem-ber-ing with a sigh the hap-py days of yore - We love our school, And al-ways we will do time, Yod

Faster

How-er- we our col-ors white and blue, We wil-let be loy-al. We love our school, And al-ways we will glad-ly sing - Prais-es to the best > best of all, Dear old YADKINVILLE, HIGH.

FOREWORD

Forty-three years! Almost half a century! Who can grasp the significance of the changes that have occurred in this time? From a small student body of approximately seventy, our school has become through the years a means of enlightenment to thousands of students.

The spirit of Yadkinville School lies in contributions made to society by a vast number of students who have graced her halls. The administrators and instructors have prepared these students to face the world—and prepared them well. But the greatest of all things endure, the ideals for which our school stands—truth, sincerity, and honesty.

We proudly say that we can remember our school for past accomplishments, for leadership of the present, and for the influence upon students who will continue their education. Therefore, we the members of the staff give to you the 1967 edition of the YADKINIAN containing a brief history of our Alma Mater.

DEDICATION

We honor this year a couple for whom we have the greatest respect and admiration. Their high standards of morality, their fairness, and their interest in all phases of school life cause them to "stand tall" in the eyes of all of us--students, faculty, and staff.

Their energies and abilities are channeled toward those things that work for the greater benefit of the students. Correcting and then forgetting our transgressions are marks of their understanding.

It is with appreciation and appropriateness that we, the last graduating class of Yadkinville High School, dedicate the 1967 YADKINIAN to

MR. and MRS. EDGAR B. COMER

A History Of Yadkinville High School

The present Yadkinville School grew out of the Yadkinville Normal School, which was established in 1891 by Professor Zeno H. Dixon. The Normal School was erected on the site now occupied by the Yadkinville Community Building. In 1907, a new building was constructed on the site of the present school auditorium.

The dates of Yadkinville School are 1917 until 1967, but the present High School has been in operation only since 1924. The principals until 1924 were Wade H. Britt (1917), Will E. Fleming (1918), Rossie Shore (1919), N.W. Gresham (1920), and C.N. Dobbins (1921-23).

The actual Yadkinville High School, as we know it today, began operation in 1924, with Mr. A.H. Wolfe serving as the first principal. Other principals were: Mr. A.H. Dixon (1926-1927), Mr. R.H. Crater (1928-1939), Mr. L.H. Koon (1939-1942), Mr. D.D. Martin (1942-1947), Mr. R.P. Buchanan (1947-1963), and Mr. E.B. Comer (1963-1967).

The most extensive building program associated with Yadkinville School took place in 1949, when the present high school section and gymnasium were built. A temporary lunch room was built in 1948, and the new high school building was finished in 1950. Along with the new building, a gymnasium, science and home economics laboratories, and a library were built. Many improvements were made in the landscaping, walks, driveways, and parking areas. Also, the playgrounds were reworked and the new activity field was constructed with space for football, baseball, softball, tennis, volley ball, and basketball. Much of the credit for these improvements is given to the FFA, under the direction of Mr. Herbert Cameron, and community-minded organizations.

Since 1963, five classroom trailers and a band room were added.

Mr. E.B. Comer has been principal since 1963. He will be remembered as the last principal of Yadkinville

The first student body. (1923)

In 1928 and 1929, the brick annex and the agricultural building were built. From 1929 to 1942, are the dates during which the three-room classroom building was built. From 1942 to 1947, the old gymnasium was torn down and plans for a new high school and a new gymnasium were made.

High School. Mr. Comer has prepared the school, its students, and its teachers for consolidation.

Now, the year is 1967, the last few months of Yadkinville High School are dwindling. Now is the time to look backward as well as forward and to remember as well as dream.

The ultimate goals of the Language Department are twofold: first, to make students aware of words—their structures, meanings, and arrangements; second, to cultivate an appreciation for literature. Students are challenged to think critically, to reason logically, and to express themselves accurately and effectively.

"Well, of course, the subject of the infinitive is in the objective case!"

MATHEMATICS

Mathematics is not so much a body of knowledge as a special kind of language, one so perfect and abstract that it may be understood universally. The proper usage of the grammar of the language is determined by logic. Mathematics deals as much with philosophy, economics, military strategy, musical composition, artistic perspective, and parlor games as it has to do with atomic physics. Our civilization would scarcely exist without it.

SCIENCE

The study of science is valuable in helping students understand life and how living organisms respond to the factors of their environment. By mastering scientific principles and by applying the scientific method students acquire skills in solving problems and in adjusting to a rapidly changing world.

Something funny in ALGEBRA?

Attack from the rear.

Social Studies

The Social Studies Department strives to make students aware of man's development as a social being—his progress from times of the first recorded history to the present. Students need a broad understanding of the social sciences in order that they might learn lessons of the past and gain knowledge which will be profitable in dealing with problems of the future.

Business Education

The overall objective of the Business Education Department is to teach students to become wise, intelligent consumers of time, energy, and money and to become efficient producers of goods and services.

Guidance

The Guidance Department is involved in the following areas of intellectual development of all pupils: educational course planning; planning for post-high school education; encouraging optimal intellectual productivity; studying problems of "failing" students; recognizing and trying to eliminate the problems of lack of motivation in academic learning.

Physical Education

Physical Education is of vital importance to a school curriculum if healthful attitudes toward the body and sportsmanship are to be instilled in the minds of the students. This part of the curriculum includes courses concerned with an individual's health, his safety, and his recreation. Students also discover ways of making wise use of their leisure time.

"Who said two hands are better than one?"

Logan adds two more!

The Hornets, coached by Steve Helton, were handicapped by injuries during the early part of the year and by the loss of several lettermen. However, the team showed enthusiasm and good teamwork throughout the season. Their performance during the tournament gave them a third-place berth in the county.

"Helton teaches us ballet!"

"Man, the reach ain't nothing!"

"Give me that ball...*?/# KID."

Alma Mater

We may come, we may go,

But we never will forget

The School that we love so,

Where many friends we're met . . .

*As the years pass on by,
Our school will we adore
Recalling with a sigh
The happy days of yore.*

We love our school

And always we will be true

Yadkinville are we-

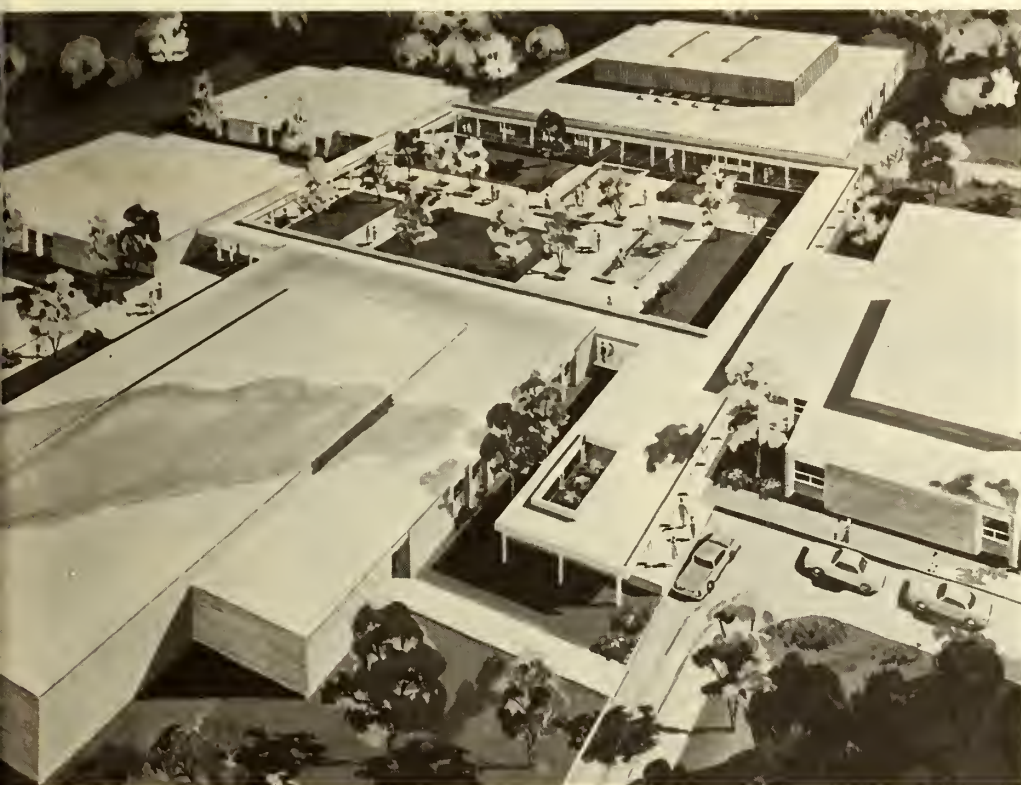

Our colors white and blue . . .

*We will e're be loyal. We love our school
And always we will gladly sing
Praises to the best-the best of all,
Dear old Yadkinville High.*

Lewis Brumfield

I DREAM . . . TOMORROW

FUTURE

1967-?

Yadkinville High School will be consolidated in 1967-68 with Courtney and East Bend High Schools to become Forbush High School. On the right is a picture of the new school under construction. Below is a picture of the Yadkinville students who will be members of the first graduating class of Forbush High School. In the lower right is a map showing the location of the school.

I Remember . . . Yesterday
I Experience . . . Today
I Dream . . . Tomorrow
